artists of any ilk can be extremely opinionated when it comes to what they do how they do it and what it might mean sculptors are no exception modern sculpture artists in their own words presents a selection of manifestos documents statements articles and interviews from more than ninety subjects including an ample selection of contemporary sculptors with this book editor douglas dreishpoon defers to sculptors whose varied points of view illuminate the medium s perpetual transformation from object to action concept to phenomenon over the course of two centuries each chapter progresses in chronological sequence to highlight the dominant stylistic philosophical and thematic threads that unite each kindred group the result is a distinctive artist centric history and survey of sculpture that showcases the expansive dimensions and malleability of the medium potts also offers a detailed view of selected iconic works by sculptors ranging from antonio canova and auguste rodin to constantin brancusi david smith carl andre eva hesse and louise bourgeois key players in modern thinking about the sculptural the impact of minimalism features prominently in this discussion for it disrupted accepted understanding of how a viewer interacts with a work of art thereby placing the phenomenology of viewing three dimensional objects for the first time at the center of debate about modern visual art jacket in many anthologies of art sculpture is given short shrift in relation to other media if it is treated at all modern sculpture reader aims to rectify this situation by presenting a collection of important texts that have defined sculpture s radically changing status and role since the end of the nineteenth century a time marked by a general reappraisal of the forms and functions of art from the rigorously theoretical to the experimental and poetic modern sculpture reader offers a lively discourse on the medium by a range of artists writers critics and poets marcel duchamp louise bourgeois claes oldenberg andré breton ezra pound and clement greenberg in a variety of genres poems lectures transcribed interviews newspaper and magazine articles and artists statements these diverse text selections offer valuable insight into the development of the critical language of sculpture and its connections to other media in an era of increasingly conceptual artistic practice many of the essays highlight key ongoing concerns such as sculpture s physical properties and conditions of display both of which have important implications for the viewer s tactile and emotional interaction with sculptural works creating a successful sculpture requires an imaginative concept and a sound design that utilize the potential and avoid the limitations of the material and the process used in making it prior to a few decades ago most sculptors were restricted to carving stone and wood or casting plaster ceramics and bronze for their creations contemporary sculptors however are no longer bound by the limitations of these traditional materials and processes and can now create works in sizes forms and textures that could not have been achieved previously many modern sculptures are now made from materials ranging from steel and aluminum to plastics and composites using processes ranging from welding and adhesive bonding to molding and 3d printing to fully utilize the full potential of such new materials the sculptor needs to understand their points of strength their limitations and the most effective way of shaping them to achieve a given design although this book is written by a materials engineer the subject matter is presented from the point of view of the sculptor with emphasis on the strengths and weaknesses of different materials their resistance to weather conditions natural color and possible surface textures possible methods of shaping and joining tools and equipment needed and safety measures to take whenever possible case studies are used to illustrate the sequence of processes and the cost elements involved in shaping a given material to create an actual work of
