french prose in 2000 stems in some important measure from work presented in september 1998 at the international colloquium on french and francophone literature in the 1990 s held at dalhousie university a good number of papers given at that time and since revisited in the light of exchanges join here certain others specifically written for the purposes of this book together they constitute a wide ranging and modally varied interrogation of the current state of french and francophone prose writing its multifaceted manners its richly divergent fascinations its many theoretical or philosophical groundings the book thus ceaselessly moves its attention from fictional biography to the roman noir from the writing of glissant and chamoiseau to that of the étonnants voyageurs from the powerful discourse of women such as chawaf or condé ernaux or germain sallenave or kristeva to that of writers as diverse in their modes as le clézio and quignard duras and renaud camus all chapters focus however in near exclusive measure on the prose production of the last ten or twelve years

la place looks at a daughter's relationship with her father in a fragmented and retrospective way the narrator describes her feelings of separation and betrayal that arise when education and marriage place her in a social class with different values language tastes and behaviour she explores the ways in which individual experience is related to class and group attitudes and at the same time tells us a great deal about french society in general since the turn of the century it is a concentrated text cut through with irony and may be read in different ways la place will be an accessible and exciting addition to french studies courses social climbers have often been the core characters of novels their position between traditional tiers in society makes them a touchstone for any political and literary moment including our own morgane cadieu's study looks at a certain kind of contemporary social climber in french literature whom she calls the parvenant taken from the french term parvenu which refers to one who is newly arrived a parvenant is a character who shuttles between social groups a parvenant may reach the level of another social class but devises literary ways to come back constantly undoing any fixed ideas of social affiliation focusing on recent french novels and autobiographies on both sides of the tracks speaks powerfully to issues of emancipation and class cadieu offers a fresh critical look at tales of upward mobility in the work of annie ernaux kaoutar harchi michel houellebecq Édouard louis and marie ndiaye shedding fascinating light on social mobility today as a formal literary problem

a man s place recounts the story of a daughter coming to terms with her formative years as she writes an unflinching portrait of her father s life and death a companion work to ernaux s powerful a woman s story both
